Let $f:[0,+\infty) \rightarrow \mathbb R$ be a continuous function. Suppose that $\lim_{x\to0} \int_0^x f(t)dt$ exists. Does it follow that $\int_0^x f(t)dt=x^2f(0)+x^2f(x)$? A: Let $a = \lim_{x\to 0} \int_0^x f(t)dt$ and $b = \lim_{x\to 0} \frac{x^2f(0)+x^2f(x)}{2}$. Then we have $\lim_{x\to 0} \int_0^x f(t)dt - \frac{x^2f(0)+x^2f(x)}{2} = a - b = 0$ From the above two equations, we have $a = b$. Q: Why should the minimum wage be tied to inflation, not to household size? This question Why should minimum wage be indexed to inflation? has two answers. This answer, "Why not only inflation?", implies that inflation indexing is a bad idea. This answer, "Inflation is a benefit to the poor," says that the benefit to the poor is not linked to the minimum wage. What's the rationale behind a different inflation indexing policy? A: You are implying that the answer to your question is directly linked to inflation. The problem is that a price level of $100 means two things: 2d92ce491b
