Field of the Invention This invention relates to an air-bag system for protecting an occupant of a vehicle from a shock produced by a collision.

2. Description of the Prior Art An air-bag system for protecting an occupant of a vehicle from a shock produced by a collision is known in which an air-bag is inflated between an occupant and a steering wheel or dashboard, to protect the occupant from the shock. The air-bag system includes a gas generator for generating gas for inflating the air-bag. The gas generator of the air-bag system is disclosed in Japanese Utility Model Laid-open Publication No. 62-150073, in which a triggering device is connected to a housing of the gas generator by a support pin and the support pin is engaged with a gas generator housing to trigger the gas generator. The gas generator comprises a housing, which contains a combustion chamber filled with gas generating agent, a substantially cylindrical projecting member extending toward an air-bag for guiding combustion gases toward the air-bag, and a plate spring attached to a part of the projecting member, for urging the projecting member toward the housing. In operation, in which a
