New Lines Removal is a software that allows you to remove new lines from a selected string. This is how you can remove the new text lines you do not require with just a mouse click. Note: New Lines Removal is free for personal usage ONLY. If you want to use the program in a commercial environment you can choose to buy it. Easy and Powerful New Lines Removal New Lines Removal is the ideal solution to remove the new text lines you don't want. You can specify the number of lines to remove, and the program will only remove the new lines you want. This software is not only useful for web design, but it is also an ideal solution to remove the lines from plain text documents, emails or any files you are manipulating with a text editor. The only limitation to this software is that it's not possible to remove the lines that have non-ASCII characters (Unicode), due to the fact that the strings are first encoded in to Latin1 (or CodePage 1252 in Windows). New Lines Removal doesn't work with UNIX, because that's not Windows. There are no limitations to the number of lines you can remove. This software is free for both personal and commercial usage. If you want to use the software in a commercial environment, you can choose to buy the full version. Easy-to-use and user-friendly interface The user-interface of New Lines Removal is highly intuitive. You can specify how many lines you want to remove, and the program will only remove the new lines you want. In addition, the software offers an option to make the program run in the background. This way, the user will be able to continue working without having to close the application. The software also offers a tabbed interface with all the main options available in just one window. Features: 1. Specify the number of lines to remove Specify the number of lines you want to remove with New Lines Removal. You can select lines starting from the first line, up to a maximum of lines. Once you select the lines to remove, the software will only remove those lines and keep the rest in the document. 2. Limit the number of lines to remove New Lines Removal will automatically remove the first lines you don't want. This means that the first lines you specified are removed, but the program keeps the lines you selected from the 2
