is able to record mouse movements that are executed by pressing left/right buttons, or by dragging with a mouse scroll wheel.

Total distance traveled by the cursor can be automatically calculated by user or detected by OdoPlus via custom-made APIs. You can customize records with mouse movement, button, scrolling wheel, etc. Time of the day, day of the week and month are automatically recognized. This is different from other mouse-tracking tools that record clicks of the mouse. You can find details on the Release Notes page.

Mouse Mover This allows you to record mouse movements with time of the day, day of the week and month, and a distance. Distance is measured by counting how many pixels the cursor moves within the selected area. There are four buttons for recording: Mouse Movement Mouse Mover (this button is only displayed when you choose the appropriate settings) Reset Record (every time this button is pressed, recorded mouse events are removed) Click Recording settings Mouse Mover Settings

Total Distance: Depending on the type of tracking, measuring distance for each mouse event recorded could be different. OdoPlus automatically detects tracking type and adjusts the calculation method. If you want OdoPlus to use original definition of distance, set "Total Distance" to "Original Distance". The default value is "Automatic", which is a sensible and most user-friendly setting.

Time: Mouse movements within the selected area are recorded in distance per time. Just like
